TRIBUNAL CLAIMS FOR UNPAID WAGES

We're expecting to see an increase in Employment Tribunal claims once people return to work, particularly in relation to unpaid or underpaid wages. These claims can be low value, but expensive to defend. We've created straight-forward tools to help you defend a claim and your keep costs down.

TEMPLATE DEFENCE - £600+VAT

- The first step in defending any claim is submitting a written defence to explain why no more money is owed. If you don't submit a defence, the Tribunal can order that the claim has automatically succeeded.
- Our template outline the typical defences that might apply in a claim for unpaid wages as there may be more than one valid defence to the claim.

GUIDANCE NOTE - £500+VAT

- After you've submitted the defence, the next step will usually be a short hearing to decide the claim.
- The Tribunal's guidance on what to expect and what to take is minimal, so our comprehensive guidance note ensures you're up to speed with:
 - The structure of the hearing
 - What documents you should take
 - Detailed FAQs about the process

ADVICE BOLT-ON - £500+VAT

- Two hours of expert support from our tribunal specialist whenever you need it during the process.
- We can review your defence, advise on the merits of a claim or how to prepare for the hearing - our straight-talking support will help find the solution.

REPRESENTATION BOLT-ON - £1200+VAT AND TRAVEL

- For hearings between one and three hours in duration
- Including all necessary preparation in advance of the hearing
- Our specialist Tribunal advocate will use their expertise to give you the best possible chance of success
